GROWTH CALYBER

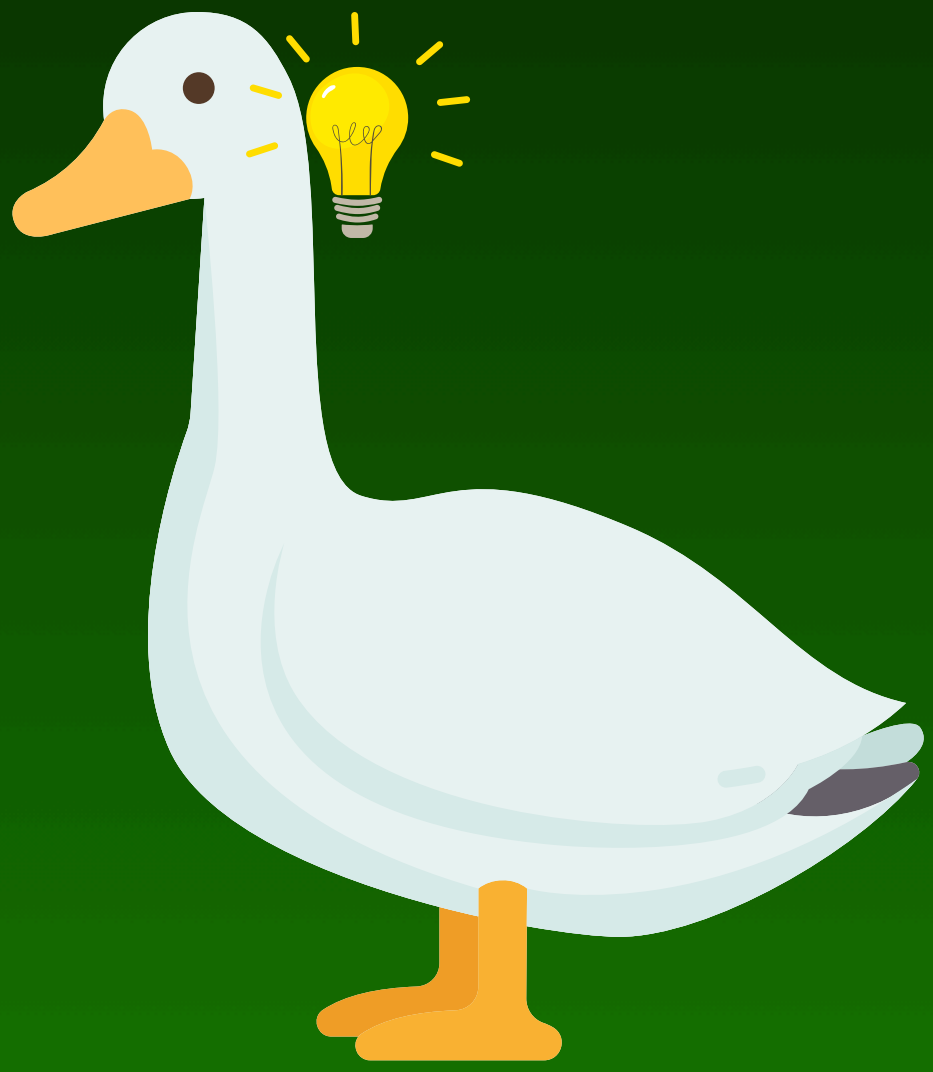

HERE'S WHY A GOOSE IS COOLER THAN US

LEADERSHIP LESSONS FROM GEESE

>>>

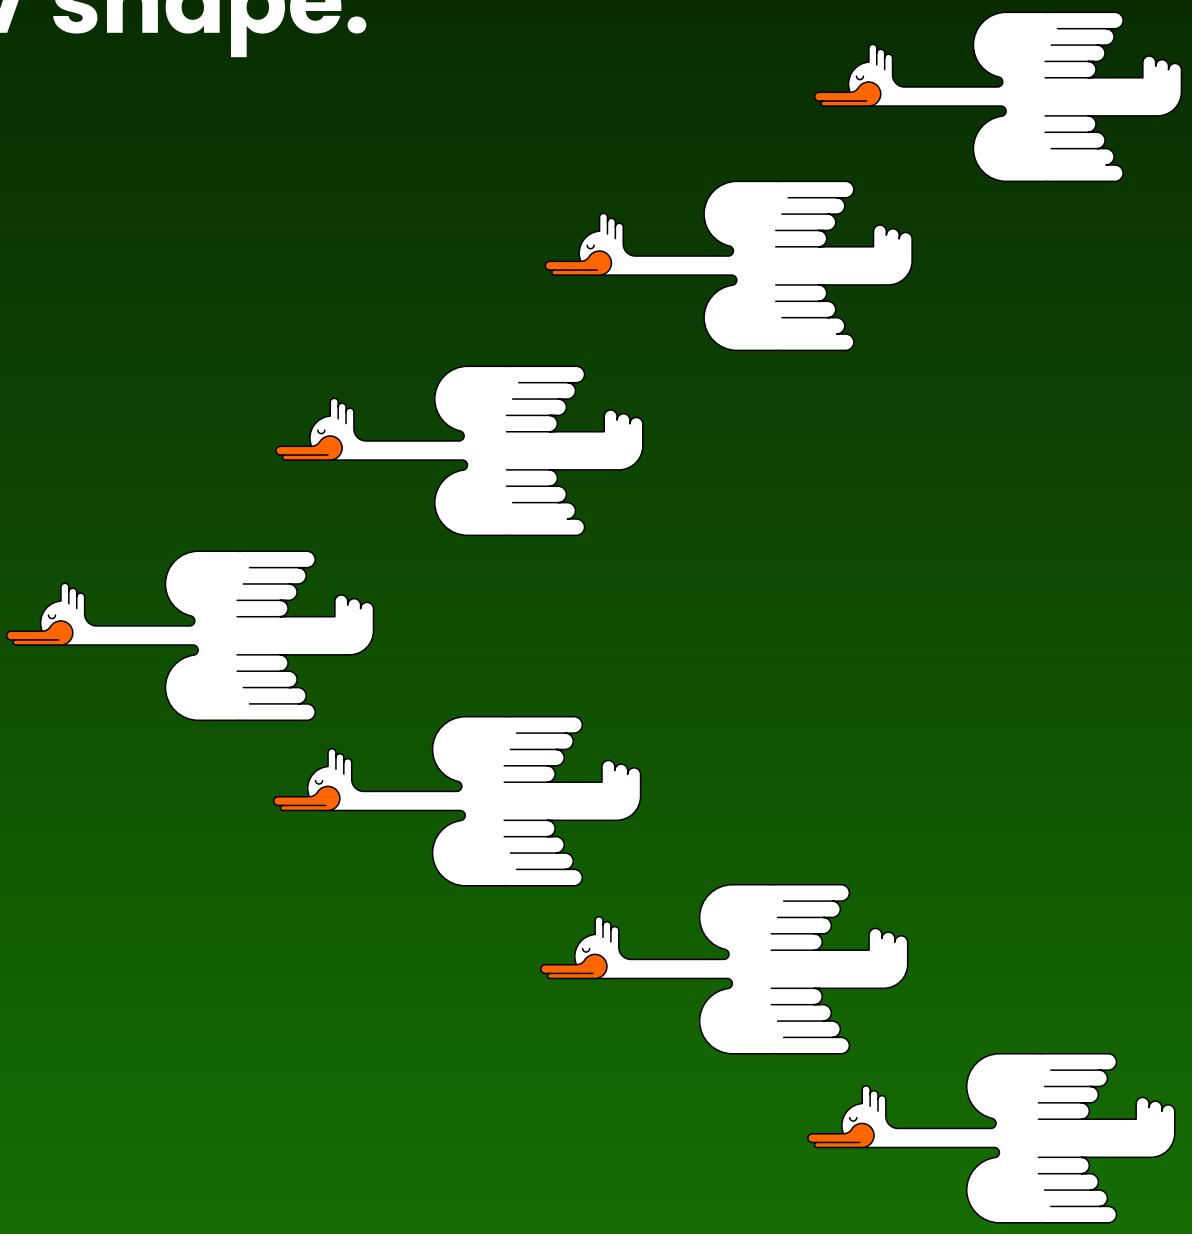

GEESE ARE WELL-ALIGNED AS A SPECIES.

The geese are highly aware of how they must align when they set off on their lengthy, difficult trips in the skies in order to safely reach their objective.

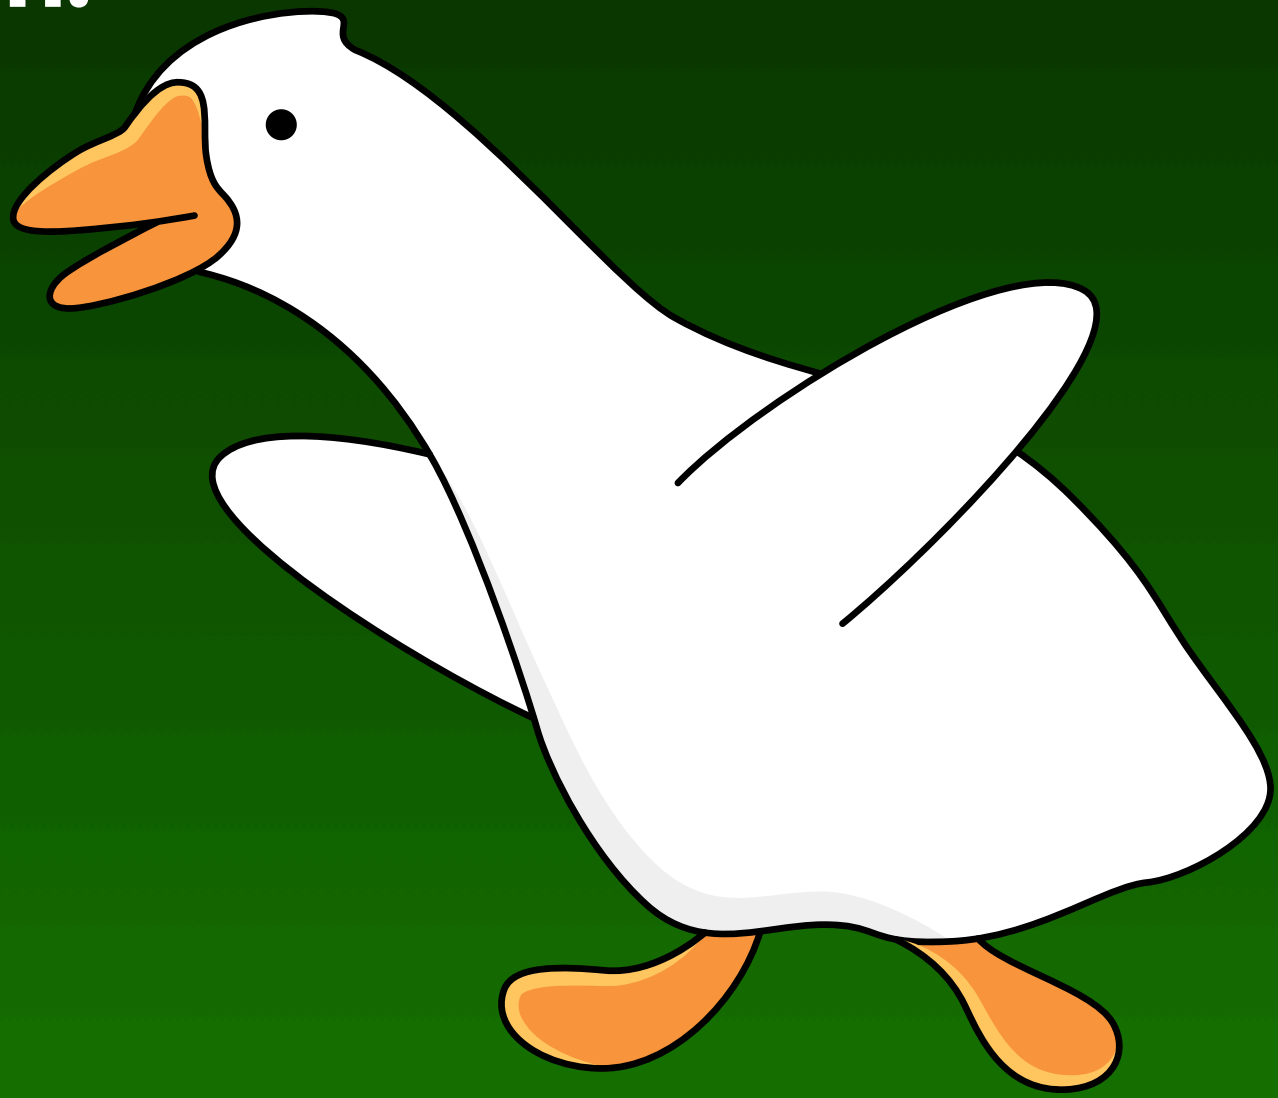

GROWTH
CALYBER

They adhere to fairly defined formation that was not chosen at random. The geese instinctively arrange themselves in a planned and distinct V shape.

GROWTH
CALYBER

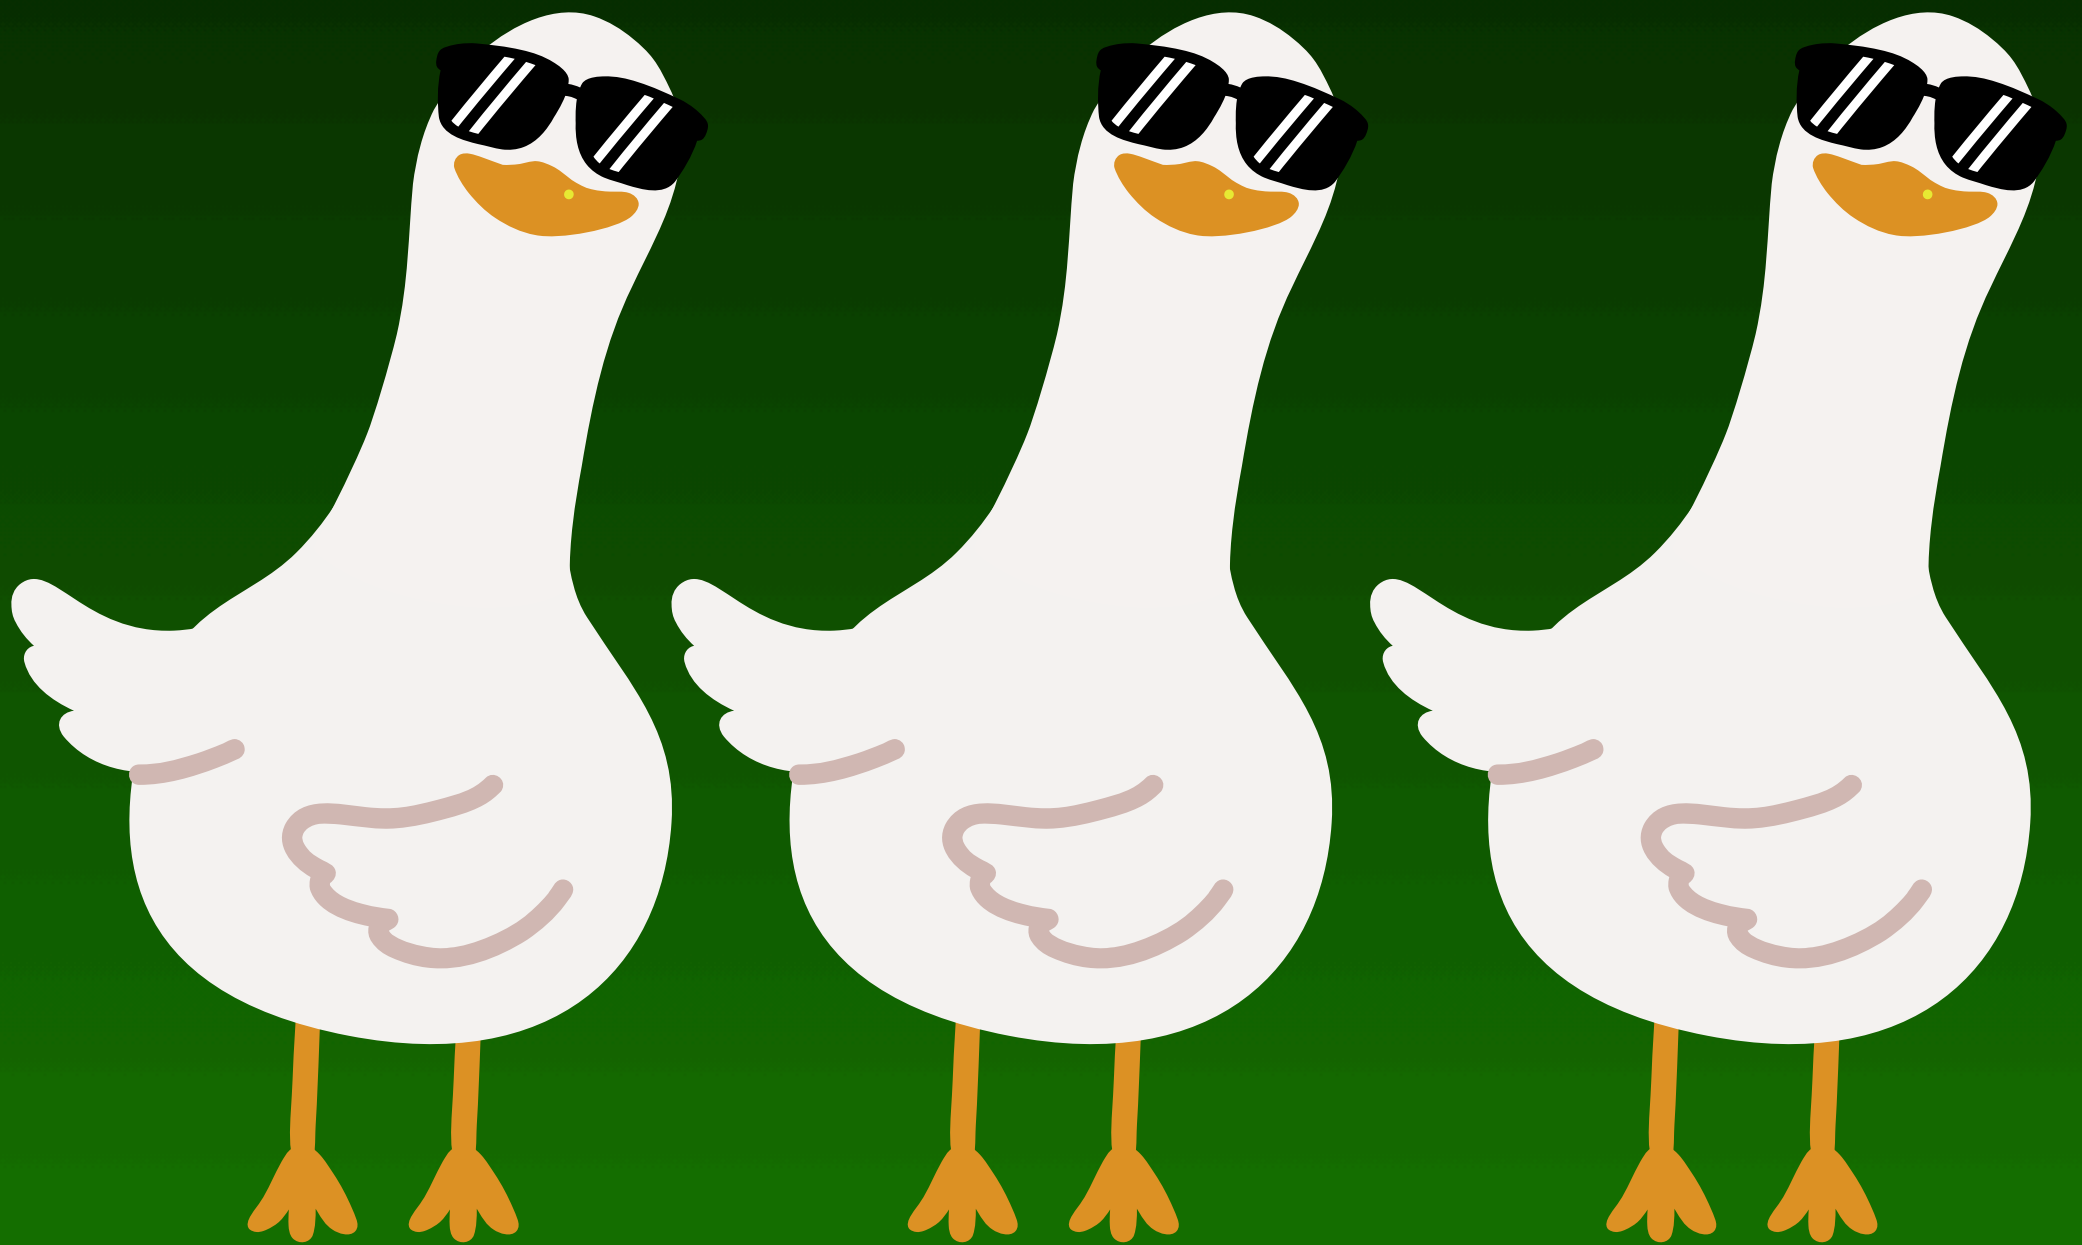

Without weakening the flock, it enables them to capitalize on the team's strengths and consolidate the speed of the weak member. Not only are they in line with one another, but they are also clearly headed in the same direction.

GROWTH
CALYBER

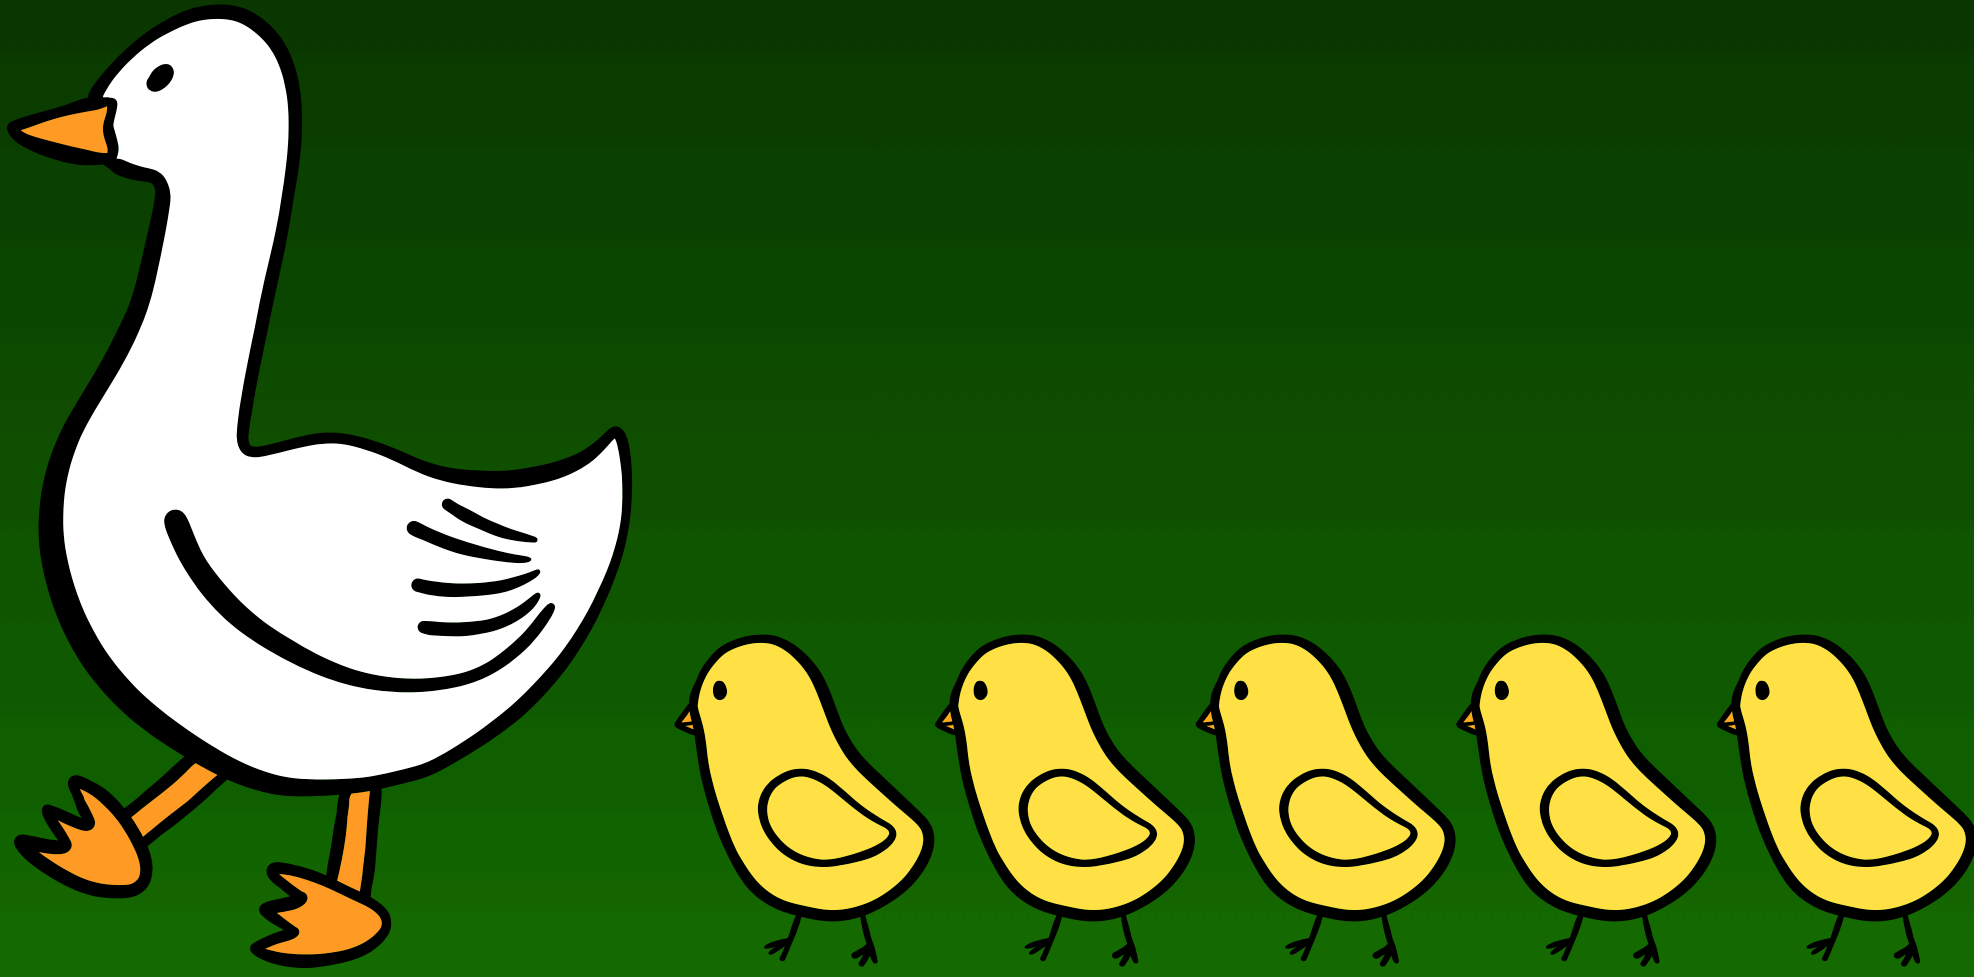

GROWTH CALYBER

GEESE DON'T BELLEVE IN A ONE-MAN SHOW

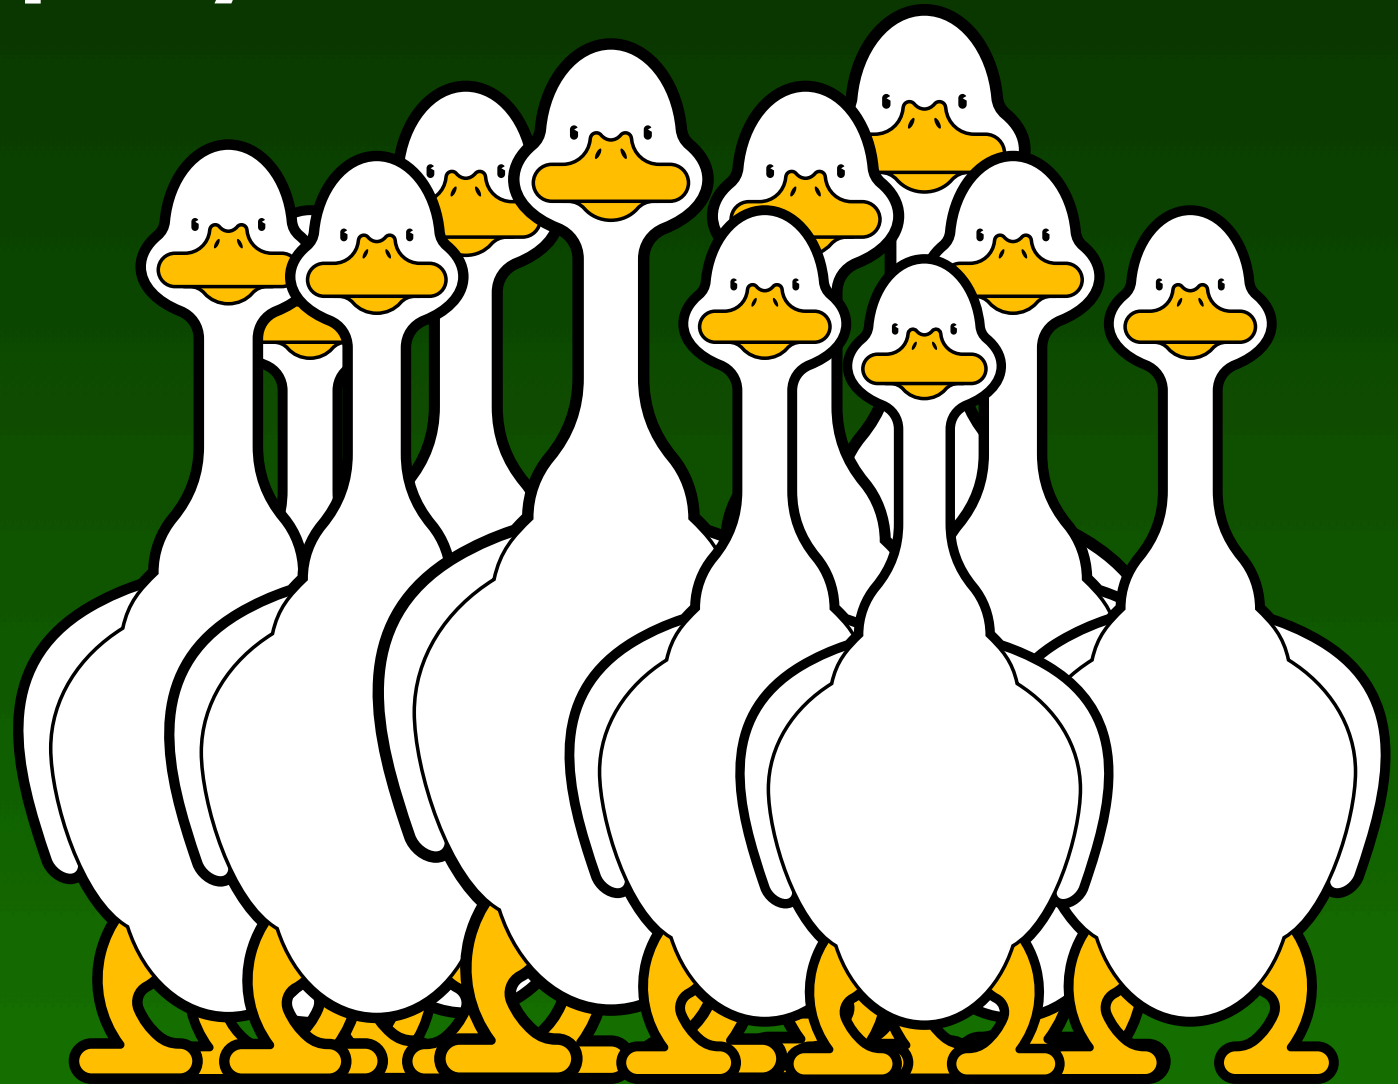

GROWTH CALYBER

These birds follow leadership as a principle. They nurture other leaders and accept group decisions. This doesn't mean a corporate setup should have multiple and not one CEO

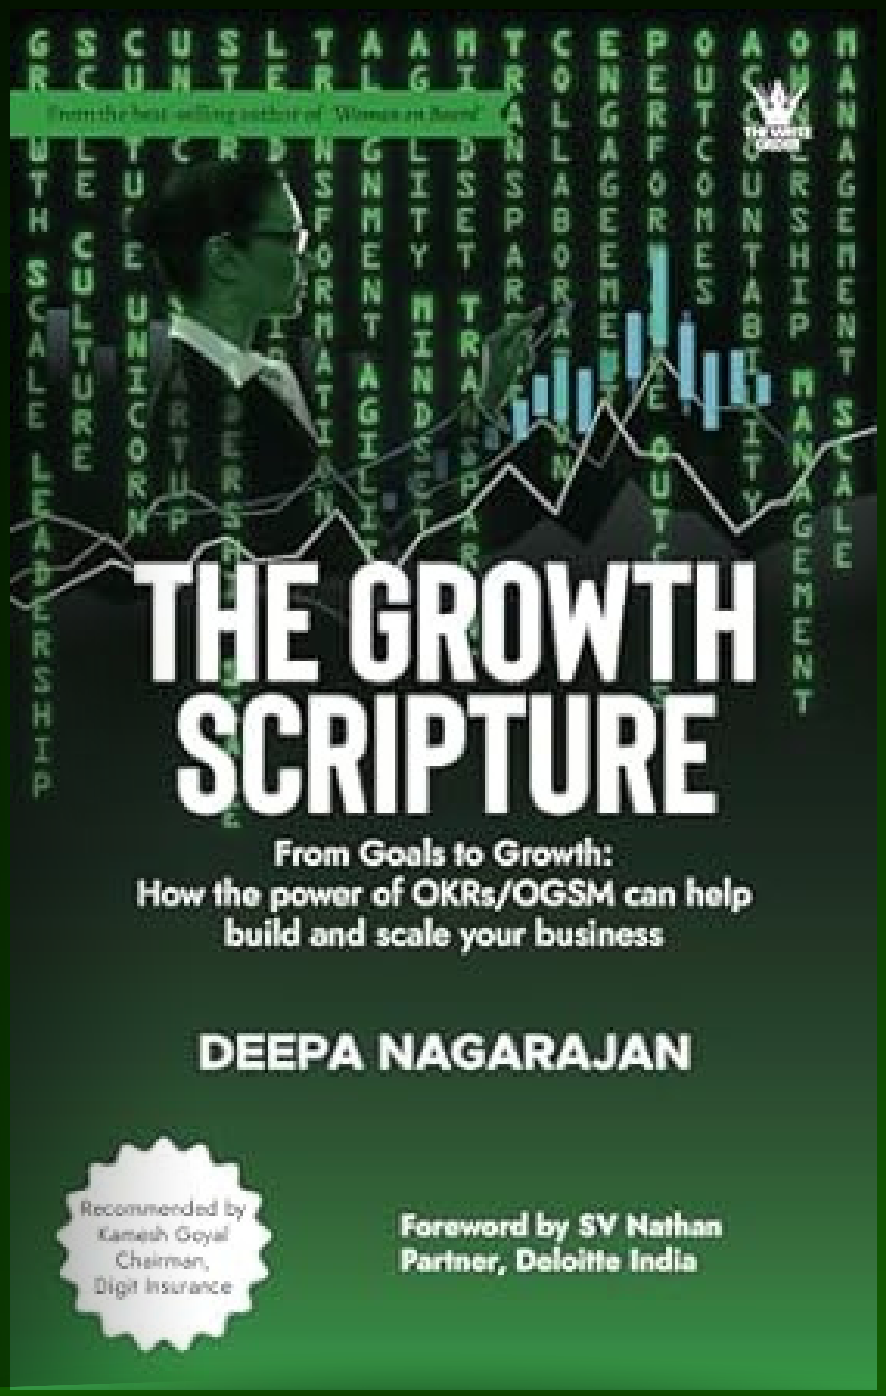

GROWTH CALYBER

What it means is an organizational success is not just the CEO's responsibility; while he drives it, he needs to pick and develop leaders who co-own the growth and development of the company.

GROWTH CALYBER

Read more from The Growth Scripture to learn about Growth, Scale and Effective Practices for Leaders to suceed at work.

Available world-wide on Amazon

E-Book and Paperback